

China Project Director

Zhihe Wang, Ph.D., former member of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, received his Masters Degree in Western Philosophy from Peking University, China, his Ph.D in Philosophy of Religion from Claremont Graduate University, USA, and is a leading figure in constructive postmodern movement in China. He has published numerous books and articles and helped establish more than 10 research institutes in China. He is director of China Project where his major responsibility is to charge the communication between the Western Process community and Chinese community by organizing international conferences, arranging lectures, translating process books, and Chinese visiting scholar program.

© 2007 The Center for Process Studies ® 1325 North College Ave., Claremont, CA 91711 ® (909) 621-5330